AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 13 /PRNewswire/ -- Landmark Plastic Corporation, a leading manufacturer of thermoformed and injection molded horticultural products, is celebrating its 20th anniversary. Founded by Bob Merzweiler and his father Leo, Landmark offers the most extensive line of thermoformed and injection molded plant-packaging products in the industry. Landmark products are designed to help Landmark's customers grow and transport plants better, smarter and faster.

Over the years, the Company has built a strong partnership with regional distributors and growers, through a customer-driven culture that permeates throughout the entire Landmark organization. According to Bob Merzweiler, Landmark's President & Chief Executive Officer, "We maintain a highly skilled and dedicated Team that has grown along with us. The Landmark Team provides quality products, specialized solutions and personal follow-up to ensure our customers' total satisfaction. Evidencing our commitment to quality, Landmark is ISO 9001; 2000 with Design certified."

Mr. Merzweiler stated further, "The recent appointment of Chief Financial Officer Jerry Stethem to Executive Vice President and the addition of Dan Collins, Vice President of Sales & Marketing, will help to secure Landmark's growth for years to come."

Operating out of its 200,000 square foot state-of-the-art facility in Akron, Ohio, Landmark has everything under one roof that customers need to move from concept to finished product. These capabilities include advanced materials testing procedures, computer automated design, extrusion, thermoforming and injection molding capability and a quality control program that involves the entire organization.

Landmark's products are distributed throughout North America and locations around the world.
